

Lutie Lewis Coates Elementary School

Home-School Compact

Adopted 2020

True Partnership exists when all parties accept responsibility and actively work toward a common goal. Coates Teachers and parents are equally committed to each child's success at school, and we commit to the following:

Families are committed to...	Teachers & school staff are committed to...
...communicating with school about the needs of their children. Don't be afraid to ask questions, request info, or volunteer. ...taking advantage of communication from school. Stay on top of weekly info from the school and engage with teachers. ...sharing their traditions, stories, and insights with school so that Coates continues to embrace diverse contributions to a common, supportive, and high achieving school culture. ...holding high expectations for their children at home and school. ....promoting reading skills and establishing a reading routine for their children at home.	...communicating with families so that they are aware of school news, events, and curriculum and have timely, specific information on their children's progress. ...taking advantage of communication from families. Reply to questions promptly, hold conferences, and proactively contact parents when needed. ...accepting responsibility for nurturing a welcoming school environment for all families and realizing the gift of learning about and supporting each individual student. ...holding high expectations for each student at school and partnering with parents when expectations are not met. ...teaching reading skills and providing families with resources and support for promoting literacy at home.

This agreement was created with significant parent and teacher input over the course of multiple meetings in 2019-20. Thanks to the many stars (parents & staff members) who participated!
